I am a Full-Stack MERN Web Developer leveraging experience in numerous frameworks and languages. Known as a curious mind with a continuous focus on the next steps and perpetual improvement. my goal is to use current knowledge to develop a stable platform from which to expand from the minimum viable product further into the frontiers of technology. I am excited to leverage my skills in this role as part of a fast-paced, quality-driven team in order to build better experiences on the web and develop more concise code for the future. I appreciate the opportunity to deepen our relationship, if you have other positions that I may be a better fit for I would be open to speak with you. I look forward to hearing from you soon.

Sincerely,

Frederick Articuno
